Joshua Harrison, of Currituck county, indicted for alleged conspiracy in the abduction of Kenneth Beasley——Investigation disclosed the fact that President Hipple committed forgery, having used the names of prominent business men of Philadelphia on notes——Secretary Shaw sends letter to all national banks in which he says he expects public moneys in depository banks be used in the community where it is deposited; is advised that many banks are loaning surplus funds through brokers and others in New York at high rates of interest——Revolution in progress in Morocco; representatives of foreign countries have cabled for warships——Stensland has been turned over to Messrs. Keeley and Olsen and they are responsible for his future safety, they will make their own arrangements for bringing him back; no date for starting to this country; receiver of bank has taken no action to recover the $12,000 deposited in the Tangier bank——Mr. Sullivan makes reply to the attacks made upon him by Mr. Bryan at the Jefferson Club banquet at Chicago; he challenge a comparison of his Democracy with Mr. Bryan and regrets anything that tends to bring discord in the Democratic party——The Executive Committee of the Southern Cotton Association established 10 cents as the minimum price at which cotton shall be sold at this season; charges against Secretary Cheatham for dealing in futures being investigated——New York markets: Money on call easier, 1 1-2 to 17 per cent.; ruling rate 12, closing bid 2, offered at 2; spot cotton quiet at 9.80; flour barely, steady and quiet; wheat easy; No. 2 red, 76 18; corn easy; No. 2, 57 1-2; oats steady; mixed 35 1-2; turpentine steady; rosin firm; strained, common to good, 4s10.

It is refreshing to see that the Charlotte Observer spells Shakespeare in the good old way.

Next comes Secretary Shaw to enlighten the Tar Heels on the tariff, and to tell them, what they already know, that five-dollar bills are very scarce.

We will know Monday night whether the constituents of Representative Littlefield think more or less of him than they did two years since. Small favors thankfully received.

The Robesonian of the 4th has a list of thirty transfers of real estate in Robeson county. Presumably, this covers the transactions for one week; and it shows that there's "something doing" in the biggest county in the State.

Why is it that so little cotton is sold in Wilmington? The new season will soon be on, when it is hoped something a little more satisfactory than "Nominal" or "Nothing Doing" will find a place on the boards of the Chamber of Commerce.

Since candidate Fairbanks sat down with Booker Washington at a dinner party in Columbus, Ohio, a few days since, it has been determined to organize a negro Fairbanks club in Washington City. Fairbanks only followed the example of Roosevelt in dining with Booker.

Terpsichorean professor Meyer Forst is opposed to the "hug" in waltzing and contends that if it is right to "hug" while the music is on it is also right to "hug" when the music has ceased. If the professor wishes to make his academy the most popular one in the country he should prove that the "hug" is correct whether the music is on or off.

In his speech at Rockland, Maine, Speaker Cannon criticised strongly the government ownership feature of Bryan's speech and then said: "Stranger things might happen than Roosevelt's being President until 1912." That's funny. If, as contended by all Republicans, and admitted by a few Democrats, Bryan is already defeated by reason of his position on government ownership, any old Republican will have a walk-over for the Presidency. Why, then, even suggest Roosevelt, who is not a candidate? What's the matter with "Uncle Joe" himself?

BANK CASHIER GONE

Mysterious Disappearance of Young Man With Hope Mills, N. C., Institution.

HIS ACCOUNTS ALL RIGHT

Has Been Missing Since Last Saturday—Debele Elected to Fill Vacancies Are Unknown—Depositors in No Way Alarmed.

The Fayetteville Observer of yesterday afternoon has the following account of the mysterious disappearance of the cashier of the Bank of Hope Mills, N. C., meagre particulars of which reached this city earlier in the week, but which were not confirmed until the report published in the Fayetteville paper yesterday:

The account is as follows:

"Mr. Willie A. Jones, cashier of the Bank of Hope Mills, has mysteriously disappeared, and every effort to find a trace of him has so far failed. No funds of the bank are missing and the books appear to be all right. There was several thousand dollars in money in the bank, and apparently not a penny of it was touched—in fact the books shows that Mr. Jones has a sum due him by the bank. However, if any discrepancy should be discovered, it will be fully covered by a trust company bond of $5,000.

"The Hope Mills depositors, when they learned of the cashier's disappearance, were not at all uneasy about their deposits, and though Dr. Lilly, the president of the bank, when he learned of the disappearance, hurriedly left for Hope Mills with several thousands dollars in gold, to meet any run that might be made, not only was there no sign that any one desired to withdraw their deposits, but on the other hand deposits were made as usual.

"Mr. Jones is about 25 years of age, is about 5 feet 6 inches in height, and weighs 125 pounds. He has fair complexion. Mr. J. S. Jones, his father, who is the well known cashier of the bank of Red Springs, is about distracted at his son's disappearance, and is using every effort to find some clue as to his whereabouts.

"Mr. Jones has been cashier of the bank only six months, and was very popular and well thought of by all who knew him. The last seen of him was Saturday night, when he left the Hotel Wingate, saying that he was going to Fayetteville to take the train for Richmond, where he intended to spend Sunday and Monday, the latter day being a legal holiday. His disappearance is unaccountable, and it is useless to speculate as to the cause of it.

"Mr. Claud W. Rankin, of the Bank of Fayetteville, is acting cashier of the Hope Mills Bank."

DELIGHTFUL ON BEACH.

September is Very Pleasant Down by The Ocean Side.

Few people realize how delightfully pleasant it is at the beach these moonlight nights in September. They are won't to believe that it is too cool for comfort down by the ocean but experience has proved to a great many the past week that it is even more pleasant at the beach than it is in the city. The usual week-end dance will be given at Lumina to-night and the Consolidated Company is making arrangements to handle a very large crowd. There will be good music and a variety of other attractions.

The Regal Shoe.

In addition to his old and well established clothing business, Mr. A. Shrier has taken the agency in Wilmington of the Regal Shoe, well known as one of the most popular brands of footwear on the market, and will carry a full stock at all seasons. Next Tuesday will be the opening day, when Mr. Shrier will be glad to have the public call and examine his stock.

STRANGER INJURED

James Butler, Excursionist from Sampson County, Fell Down Long Flight of Steps at Lumina Yesterday Afternoon—In Hospital.

James Butler, 22 years old, of Salemburg, N. C., is in the hospital here in a critical condition as the result of a fall he sustained down the steps on the ocean side of Lumina pavilion at Wrightsville Beach yesterday afternoon. While he was rather under the influence of liquor at the time of his fall, he is suffering some with concussion of the brain and has been unconscious since the fall.

Butler, his brother and several friends from Sampson county, came down on the excursion from Clinton yesterday and were at Lumina early in the afternoon. The young man subsequently injured went away with some companions about 3 o'clock and returned a little later somewhat under the influence of liquor. He had climbed to the second landing of the steps on the ocean side of Lumina but was apparently able to get no further up. In his condition, he easily lost his footing and went sprawling down to the beach. He suffered several bruises about the face and head and was picked up at the foot of the steps in an unconscious condition. His brother and several employes of the Consolidated Company assisted the injured man and he was brought up on the first car, Dr. F. H. Russell meeting the car in the city. Dr. Russell made a casual examination of the wound and sent him out to the hospital. Dr. Slocum, surgeon in charge of the hospital, stated that the patient had not regained consciousness at 9 o'clock last night, but that he was of the opinion the man was in no immediate danger. He is suffering some with concussion of the brain but the case is considered in no wise a hopeless one.

REPUBLICANS OF DUPLIN.

Full Ticket "Put Out" at Kenansville Convention Yesterday.

Kenansville, N. C., Sept. 7.—The Republicans of Duplin met in convention here to-day in the rear of Gavin's store and put out a ticket to be defeated by the militant Democracy in the November election. There were not over sixty present, Abe Middleton and Dock Williams, high in the councils of the party in the past, being conspicuous for their absence. C. C. Vann was in the chair and appeared to be the grand mogul of the whole affair. G. T. Sutton was secretary. Postmaster Thad Jones, of Kenansville, sat near the chairman and appeared full of suggestions few of which, however, seemed to gain the ear of the potentate, who was evidently bent on having his own way with things. Postmaster Caldwell, of Wallace, was also on hand. The nomination of the ticket was a perfunctory sort of proceeding, things having evidently been cut and dried in a caucus held before the convention. Chairman Vann captured the nomination for State Senate; Secretary Sutton landed a place on the ticket for county commissioner; R. W. Blackmore was nominated for the House; O. W. Quinn, independent candidate for sheriff, was endorsed; C. M. Middleton was named for Register of Deeds; Jno A. Gavin, Sr., for Clerk of the Superior Court; Dr. J. F. Maxwell for coroner; Ira Ward for surveyor, and R. C. Seawell, J. J. Blanchard and Secretary Sutton for county commissioners Upon the whole the convention was a very tame affair and if there was any enthusiasm it did not come to the surface.

CAPTURED CRAZY NEGRO.

Constable Savage and Deputy Sheriff Cox Were Successful.

A telephone message yesterday from Constable Savage and Deputy Sheriff W. H. Cox stated that they had taken into custody the crazy negro Fred Hill, who has been the source of much alarm among the residents, both white and colored, on Federal Point. The officers followed the crazy negro from Carolina Beach to Fort Fisher and finding all other means of retreat cut off, Hill took to a boat. The officers are reported to have done likewise and to have overtaken the negro, commanding him to throw up his hands at the point of their revolvers. The negro had a gun and a pistol in the boat with him, but was quickly disarmed and brought ashore. The officers telephoned that they expected to reach Wilmington early this morning with the prisoner.

THE Y. M. C. A. YEAR

Annual Report of General Secreary Charles Dushan Submitted Last Night.

DIRECTORS WERE IN SESSION

Dr. Joseph Akerman and Mr. F. C. Debele Elected to Fill Vacancies on Board—Plans Outlined for Coming Season.

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association was held last night, the principal feature of the session being the annual report of General Secretary Charles Dushan, for the fiscal year just ended, showing a larger volume and greater variety of work accomplished that ever before. Plans were also laid for beginning the Fall and Winter season of the Association which will open with brighter prospects than ever before. Aside from these matters, the Board elected Dr. Joseph Akerman and Mr. F. C. Debele as members of the body to succeed Messrs. C. C. Covington and J. A. Taylor, who resigned some time ago. A new Board for election at the next meeting was also nominated. The report of Mr. Dushan is very comprehensive and contains some interesting statistics of the work. It is as follows:

Board of Directors, Young Men's Christian Association.

Gentlemen:—To say that the present year was more productive of results than any previous one seems but a stereotyped phrase though a careful comparison of the work accomplished with that of other years will prove the words eminently fitting for the occasion. Not only have we continued the work of all the departments which existed in ineuly fitting for the occasion. Not former years but we have several distinct features, each of which proved of much value to tae Asociation, and great pleasure to the members and others. These were roller skating, football and Sunday meetings for boys. Roller skating proved very popular and was indulged in by many hundreds of the members and their lady friends. The football team played its first game last Fall and is now organized for more games for next November and December. The boys' meeting was well attended and the boys seemed to enjoy it and were deeply impressed with the truths taught them by each speaker in turn. Improvements, valued at more than $1,200 were added. These consisted of refurnishing the reading room a result of the work done by the ladies of the Auxiliary, placing a new floor in the gymnasium, the money for which was given by several of the members and the remodeling and improvements in the bath oom the money for which was also given by the members and other friends of the Association. This latter improvement gives us a bath room equal to any in the country in point of quality if not in space. The baseball team which represented the Association did credit to the institution both by its playing ability and by the gentlemanly conduct of the players. The membership has been materially increased not by any special effort, but by a steady growth, due largely to the solicitation of the present members and to the increased value of the membership privileges. There are few if any, other Associations in this country which give so much for so small a fee, as we do. The gymnasium was in use almost every hour of every day (except Sunday) either by those who used it for gymnastic exercise or as a skating rink. In these ways thousands used it enjoying keen recreation and developing strong healthy bodies. The swimming pool and baths have been taxed to their fullest capacity often and have been used generously at all times. More than twelve thousand visits were made to the reading room. Many new books were added to the library, these being given by the members. More than two thousand volumes were drawn. The social features were very popular . The Bible classes were attended more largely than for the previous year.

The social features were very popular and largely attended. The Bible classes were larger than for any previous year notwithstanding the fact that this was the fourth year. Many of the men who attended the first session still attend regularly.

The finances of the Association are in splendid conditon as we have all bills paid and a substantial balance on hand with which to begin the new year. At the last Inter-State Convention held at Charleston, S. C., acting upon your instructions an invitation was extended to the convention to hold its next sessions in Wilmington during the month of March, 1907. This invitation was accepted and the meeting will be held here at that time.

In all the work of the past we have been greatly blessed in the large number of devoted friends who have, by their individual and united efforts, made this work possible. The ladies of the Auxiliary, the business men of the city, the pastors of all the churches, the members and many others, each and all of whom have entered heartily in various ways, into this effort for the good of the young men of the city. To each of these, without whose help and encouragement this work would have proven less helpful (and possibly a failure), we owe a deep debt of gratitude, a debt which mere words can never discharge. Judging the future by the results of the past, and depending upon the continued support of all those who desire to help the young men of the city by providing a place which is open to them every day in the week where they may benefit themselves mentally, physically, socially and morally, we feel safe in predicting thattheyear upon which we now enter will be fraught with greater results for good than any which have proceeded it. In all this we should not fail to give honor to "the giver of all good gifts" without Whose blessing no good can be accomplished but with whose help all things are possible. The report in detail follows:

Religious Department—Bible Classes, number Conducted, Men 32; Boys 35. Total, 67. Attendance: Men, 555; Boys, 618. Total, 1,173.

Boys' Meeting—Number, 29; Attendance, 1,012; Professed Conversions, 7; United with the Church, 5.

SEVENTH DISTRICT

Judicial Executive Committee in Session Here Yesterday, Completed Organization—H. McD. Robinson Made Chairman.

The Democratic Executive Committee of the Seventh Judicial District, composed of the counties of Brunswick, Bladen, Columbus, Cumberland and Robeson, met in this city yesterday afternoon for the purpose of organizing and taking such steps toward prosecuting an active campaign for the ticket as may be deemed advisable, the idea being to roll up a majority for the Democratic nominees larger than ever.

The meeting of the committee was at the call of Homer L. Lyon, Esq., of Columbus, the retiring secretary, and was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at The Orton. There were present Mr. Lyon, J. R. Williamson, of Columbus; E. J. Britt, of Robeson; Geo. H. Currie, of Clarkton; George H. Bellamy, of Brunswick, and N. A. Sinclair, Esq., of Cumberland, nominee for solicitor in the district. The committee was appointed at the late Judicial Convention at Fayetteville and the death of D. T. Oates, Esq., the chairman, a few days later, made it necessary for the committee to reorganize yesterday. H. McD. Robinson, Esq., of Cumberland, was elected to succeed Mr. Oates as a member and was subsequently elected chairman of the committee. J. R. Williamson, of Columbus was elected secretary. Matters of interest were discussed at length and members in attendance upon the meeting expressed themselves as very well pleased with the outlook.

Mr. Sinclair, nominee for solicitor, says that the affairs of the district are in fine shape. The conventions of Cumberland and Robeson on Thursday each nominated a very strong ticket, he said, and little party differences that existed before those conventions have now disappeared. He says the majority for the ticket will be well ahead of four years ago. Mr. Sinclair personally is active, energetic and has a vision of affairs political that gives weight to what he says.

COUNTY CAMPAIGN

Democratic Primaries Less Than Twenty Days Off—Politics Warming Up.

REGISTRARS MEET TO-DAY

Will Receive Books and Instructions for Opening of Registration on Monday—Request to Magisterial Candidates.

With the New Hanover Democratic primaries less than twelve days off, the county campaign is warming up in lively fashion and partisans of the several candidates for the offices to be filled are busy making pre-election estimates of majorities and general results. Caucuses in the several wards and precincts of the city are being held nightly and the forces are lining up in great shape. One or two out-door rallies have been held in several of the remote wards and the active workers in the campaign have been "whoopin' 'em up" in great shape. The most interest perhaps centers about the shrievalty with the race for the Legislature a close second. Then there is also much interest as to the contests for Register of Deeds and for County Treasurer, though the fight is not so warm for these positions. The coming week and until the day of the primary the contest will become more and more strenuous and the politicians have lively times ahead for them.

Registration for the primary begins in the several wards and townships Monday. There is no new registration for the primary, but where voters have removed from one ward to another or have become eligible since the last election, it will be necessary for them to register anew. All the registrars are called to meet Chairman Jas. H. Burriss, of the County Executive Committee, at the Court House this afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of receiving their books and getting all necessary instructions as to their duties. The registrars and poll holders have already been named and it is hoped to have as large an attendance as possible so that the filed may be gone over thoroughly to avoid confusion later.

There are 25 magistrates to be elected in the coming primary for Wilmington township and a specified number for the country townships. In order to symtematize the voting for these justices Chairman Burriss requests all who contemplate submitting their names to the primary for the office of magistrate to notify him either in person or to 'phone to No. 1066. By complying with this request the voting for magistrates can be greatly facilitated and the count on the night of the primary can be very materially made less difficult.

As yet there is nothing new in the Senatorial matter. George H. Bellamy, Ees., nominee of Brunswick county, was in the city yesterday and hoped to have had a conference with Mr. Burriss, but he was delayed in his arrival and did not reach the city in time for the conference as appointed. These matters will likely be arranged within the next few days.

THE ACADEMY TO-NIGHT.

Murray and Mack to Inaugurate the Season—Jane Kennark.

The Wilmington theatrical season will receive a merry start to-night, when Murray and Mack will be seen at the Academy in "Around the Town," which is described as a jolly musical farce comedy. The sale of seats for the engagement opened yesterday at Plummer's. Prices are as usual.

What should prove a most delightful dramatic treat will be the appearance of Jane Kennark in Clyde Fitch's comedy, "The Toast of the Town," at the Academy Tuesday night. While Mr. Fitch's play is called a comedy, it is said to be a drama of very considerable dramatic power and intensity. It is a work, too, that the dramatist has given rather more time to than usual in writing. Miss Kennark has had such wonderful luck in the choosing of plays, that her great success in "The Toast of the Town" was no surprise. Her company for this season is an unusually fine one, and the production is said to be of great magnificence. Mr. Fitch is said to have introduced into "The Toast of the Town" many surprising novelties, for which he is famous.

The sale of seats will commence Monday.

For Corporation Commissioner: Franklin McNeill, of Wake.

For Judge Superior Court—Fifth District: Oliver H. Allen, of Lenoir.

For Solicitor Fifth District: Rodolph Duffy, of Onslow.

A CRAFTY POLITICIAN.

Theodore Roosevelt is a crafty politician. He is deeply interested in the result of the Congressional elections to be held in November. If the Republicans retain control of the House of Representatives by a good majority he will be "de-lighted" because it will be fairly construed as an indorsement of his policies, though some of them are strongly Democratic.

Before writing his open letter—intended as a campaign document—to Representative Watson, he held a consultation at Sagamore Hill with a number of leading Republicans, the result of which was a decision to "stand pat" on the tariff. This was followed by the so-called open letter to Representative Watson in which it was announced that there would be no revision of the tariff until the time arrived when revision "would do more good than harm"—that is, to the Republican party.

The sole object of the Sagamore Hill conference was to frame a policy that would aid the Republicans in the pending campaign, and Roosevelt was designated to issue the campaign document.

It is not difficult to understand why Roosevelt has so much at stake in the Congressional campaign. It is not so much because he wishes a House of Representatives in such complete accord with him that he will be enabled to finish the work he has begun. Rather is it because a Republican defeat in November would point unerringly to a rapid decline of his strength and popularity.

But the Congressional elections over and a Republican victory won, we predict that Roosevelt will send a message to the present Congress urging a revision of some of the tariff schedules on conservative lines. It would be bad politics to thrust a definite proposition for revision into the pending campaign and thus alienate the manufacturers who have grown fat on the tribute wrung from the people. Roosevelt and his stand-pat party want the campaign contributions of the monopolists, and they will be forthcoming, too, as usual. And this is why Roosevelt would not permit Congress to pass the bill prohibiting these contributions. One word from him would have insured the passage of that bill, but he had no desire to cut off the source of supply that has enabled his corrupt party to win so many victories. Doubtless, when the elections are over our zig-zag President will recommend to Congress that the anti-contribution bill become a law.

We have been surprised to note the opinion expressed by some of our contemporaries that it would be no advantage to the Democrats to control the next House of Representatives as they could accomplish nothing in the line of legislation with the Senate and the Executive against them. It is true they could not push their work to completion; but our contemporaries do not seem to realize that the triumph of the Democrats in the Congressional elections in November would mean the defeat of Roosevelt, who is the real issue in this campaign, as he is now the incarnation of Republican principles. And the defeat of Roosevelt now would be the beginning of the evolution that would make him a "shattered idol" in 1908, as suggested in The Morning Star some days since.

THE PRICE OF COTTON.

It is not our purpose to advise the producers to fix a minimum price on their cotton. But we do advise them not to become panic stricken by the reports of a "bumper" crop. That the yield will be large may be conceded; but it must also be admitted that except in a small portion of the cotton belt, there has been too much rain for a normal fruitage of the plant. Even in Texas, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia whence highly favorable reports were received up to two weeks since, it is now said that the continuous rains have caused the plant to develop more weed than bolls. The appearance of a field of cotton before the formation of the squares and bolls is far from conclusive as to the ultimate yield of lint. A rank growth shuts out the rays of the Sun which is always detrimental to a full yield of the staple. There are predictions of eight-cent cotton. This may be verified; but we do not think it will. Even with what is commonly termed a "big" crop, ten cents is low enough for cotton. We say this because the market for the manufactured product occupies a strong position. The strikes of the mills have been settled; many mills have voluntarily advanced wages and all seem to be running on full time; the foreign demand both for raw cotton and the manufactured product is good. In fact, the general outlook for fair returns to the planters is excellent provided they exercise good judgment in marketing the crop.

—The idea of a rural constabulary, with the special view of the protection of our country women and children, which has lately been projected, has been received with a surprising degree of favor. It has become a subject of wide discussion by the press of the South, and all of the expressions which have found utterance are favorable to it.—Charlotte Observer.

—A Cherryvale, Kan., woman is asking for a divorce on the unusual grounds that her husband "annoys his neighbors by going to their houses to pray for them, disturbs the rest of herself and little ones by going through the house praying loudly at all times of the night, and at other times makes life miserable for her by praying definitely and loudly for her."—New York Tribune.

—They are making a big to do over Mr. Bryan advocating the public ownership of railways. It may not be a popular idea down South at this time, but we cannot dispel the belief that Mr. Bryan is only a little ahead of the times. In our judgment this will eventually be a vital question. If the people want it, it will come. But why get scared over it now? The law would be passed by the Democratic party, and would most certainly provide that each State should have the right to regulate the passenger service within its borders.—Durham Sun.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR INSTITUTE

By Man Who Had Made a Beast of Himself for Five Years.

LOST ALL OF HIS FRIENDS

After Leaving Institute Has No Desire for Whiskey and Thanks God Every Day for the Cure Effected.

The Keeley Institute, Greensboro, N. C.:

When a man has made a hog of himself five years of his life, and then lives ten years like a man, he hates to think of the wasted years and hesitates to publish to the world that once he had reached the bottom.

I have long wanted to add my testimony to that of the hundreds who have been put back in the 'push" by your Institution. I shrunk from doing so partly on account of my children who are growing up and do not remember when I went home only to bring sorrow and tears.

It may be that a word of two from one who has gone the gait may convince some personal friend to use the means at his door to keep him out of the cemetery, or mad house, and his family out of the poor house.

I could write a book about my fight with "booze"—the lost positions, the good resolutions, swearing off spells, joinng temperance societies and church; and all the different phases of the disease, all too well known to the victims. I had abandoned hope, decided to commit suicide, having on two occasions bought the necessary drug.

I have never been able to account for it unless it was the hand of Almighty God that threw some of your literature my way; and, as a last resort, I headed for Greensboro early in the year 1894. I went there entirely of my own judgment, with the exception of a conversation with a friend, who had returned a new man, full of enthusiasm and praise.

My health was broken and nervous system in such a conditon I could not write my name or sleep much. I was drinking about a quart a day, and had been constantly under the influence of whiskey about five years, of course sinking lower and lower in the business world and estimation of my friends, if I had any friends left.

I have never been sick a day since I left the Institution ten years ago. I have never taken a drop of any stimulant, and have thanked God every day since that I had the knowledge of the Institution brought to my attention, and the sense to avail myself of it.

I am a commercial traveler, making about all the towns in the Atlantic States, and would be glad to answer any letter from any friend who wants further evidence.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—State Veterinarian Tait Butler says that the fosage poisoning, among the horses in Eastern Carolina, especially in Hyde county has greatly abated; no new cases have been reported and it is believed that the ravages of the disease is effectually stopped.

—Goldsboro Argus: The sales warehouses of our city had more tobacco on their floors today than in any one day before since the Goldsboro market was established, and more than in any two days combined last year. This is the best possible evidence of how this market is growing in favor with the farmers.

—Judge Pritchard has signed a decree in favor of the Southern Railway in the case of the Southern Railway vs. Hight Point, and, among other things, the decree provides that the city may contiue to use the right of way as a street so long as it does not interfere with the business of the company.

—Every day so far this week sales on the tobacco market at Greenville have continued large with good prices. All five of the warehouses are doing a large business and it takes nearly all day to finish selling the breaks. The Greenville market has never done better than it is doing this season, and farmers not only in Pitt but from all the surrounding counties are bringin tobacco here.

—The Chatham Manufacturing Company of Elkins has filed with the secretary of state a notice of amendment to its charter, by which the psincipal office will be moved to Winston-Salem. The Elkin Woolen Mills will be continued. The amendment also considerably increases the powers of the company and the capital stock from $100,000 to $350.000. Hugh G. Chatham is presilent.

—The Presbyterian College begins its eleventh annual session, under the present management, under auspicious circumstances. The number of students enrolled was by far the largest ever present on an opening day. The students were welcomed in an address by the Rev. Arnold M. Shaw, who was followed by President Bridges. Special music was furnished under the direction of Dr. C. R. Fisher.

—J. M. Carson, an old veteran of South Carolina, who has for the past twenty-five years lived with two maiden sisters, the Misses Vaughan, in Hanover, Va., died Friday at the Soldiers' Home at Raleigh. On his way to South Carolina about a month ago, he stopped at the Soldiers' Home to rest, being completely broken down, and never sufficiently recovered to proceed on his journey, his death occurring at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

—Newton Enterprise: In Lincoln court Tuesday a young man named Jones Kiser was tried for shooting a young girl in the western part of the county. He thought the gun was not loaded and asked the girl to put her ear to the muzzle and hear the sound made when he snapped the gun. He assured her that the gun was not loaded, but when he snapped it, the gun fled and blew the top of the girl's head off. The young man thought the gun was unloaded, but he was found guilty of manslaughter for criminal carelessness and sentenced to 12 months on the chain gang.

—Greensboro Record: As in all other things, save the report of the State Labor Commissioner, Guilford county makes a good showing in the aggregate of the incomes listed for taxation. The recent report of the corporation commission places Guilford third in the state in point of incomes, New Hanover leading with $291,441, and Wake following with $251,271. Guilford lists $218,330 of incomes in excess of the $1,200 exemption, while Durham comes fourth with $208,234. Forsyth fifth with $205.409, and Mecklenburg sixth with $194,701. The aggregate for the entise state is $2,992,228, a gain of about $200,000 over the preceding year.

—Industrial News: The "Rev." Fannie Jeffries, a female disciple of the "Holiness" church, has instituted suit against the Rev. Lucius Compton, pastor of the Haywood Street "Holiness" church, a rival institution, and supposed to be doing a more flourishing business than the Jeffries establishment. Fannie alleges that the Rev Compton has injured her standing in the church by saying that "Grandma Jeffries was turned out of the Baptist church for lying." She further states that she is still a good and faithful daughter of the Holiness church, and an "ordained minister of the gospel." As a balm to her wounded soul "Grandma" Jeffries asks $2,000 damages.

—Concord Times: During the late rains the mud in the waters of the South Fork of the Catawba river has been very abundant. The eels, as is well known travel when the water is muddy, and it is said they generally slide along the bottom. One night, not long ago, the water wheel running the electric light dynamo of the High Shoals Company became so clogged with eels twice during the night that the gates had to be shut down and the eels chopped out in order to keep the machinery going. The eels would lap over the stationary buckets and continue to accumulate until the water could not pass through. For quite a while it was difficult to find out the source of the trouble.

—The committee appointed to investigate the matter of Dutch and pound nets in Pamlico rver, and now in session at Morehead City, reported in favor of the present condition of things and the present laws by a majority of 9 to 2. When the committee was first appointed by the governor, Washington, for some reason, was left without representation thereon, although it is the largest shipping point in the State for fish. At the earnest solicitation of the citizens of the town, headed by the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. W. E. Swindell was appointed. It is a well known fact that Pamlico river is the best protected river in the State in this regard, and the United States government expert as much as verified it.

—News and Observer: The millions of army worms, reported as feasting off of and destroying the crop of Mr W. A. Simpkins, are leaving him and are going west seeking new fields in which to gorge themselves. Mr. W. J. Brown stated Thusrday night that millions of the worms Thursday were moving west along the Hillsboro road between his place and that of Mr. W. R. Crawford, Sr., on Hillsboro road. There were great droves of entirely covering twenty-four feet across the road the army being over one hundred yards long. He states that the worms were from 1 1-4 to 2 inches long, and that they simply seemed to be slowly movng on headed west. Mr. Simpkins is glad that the pests have departed, but farmers west of Raleigh had best be on the lookout for the invaders, who eat up potato vines, strip fodder and do general havoc.

—Lexington Dispatch: The chief engineer of that deferred hope which maketh the heart sick, the Southbound railway, gives out that no more contracts will be awarded for the construction of the road until the folks living along the line hand over the rights of way. Persistent reports indicate that the project is being delayed by obstinate property holders. To be sure the right of way may be condemned and obstacles brushed aside by the law, but that takes time. We wish we had the necessary brand of eloquence to pour forth as a stream into the ears of the stubborn patriots to influence them in this matter. Beloved and esteemed countrymen, instead of obstructing this great artery of commerce, turn out and clean off the brush and the stumps from the route. Don't delay this tardy enterprise. Let her come There are thouusands of dollars waiting to march into Lexington when the Southbound whiltles begins to sound the Lexington station blow!

—News and Observer: Before the Supreme Court Monday there will be gone into a proceeding which is absolutely without precedent in the State, the purpose being the effort on the part of members of the bar to prevent the issuance of license to practice to two young men who recently successfully passed the examination leading to practice conducted by the Supreme court. The charges against one of the young men, said to come from Winston-Salem, is that he has been lending money at an excessive rate, his defense to the usury when indicted therefor in a magistrate's oourt in Winston being that he had charged the unusual rate for his legal services in drawing up the papers, although he was not at that time a lawyer. The charge against the other applicant for license could not be learned, it being said that he came to Raleigh from Sampson county. Members of the Supreme Court were very reticent on the subject of the charges, the Chief Justice stating that the court had decided to keep the matter secret until the investigation for the reason that otherwise an injustice might be done to the young men involved. It is learned that ex-Chief Justice Sheperd is counsel for one of the young men and will appear in his behalf before the Supreme Court on Monday.

Still Ahead in Low Prices

Our regular prices are much cheaper than any special prices yet advertised. Our goods are NEW. The following shows how and why we do and can undersell.

Discount on account of large purchases, average,	10 pr. ct
Discount for cash (we pay cash), average	10 pr. ct
Savings of freight on car shipment, average	5 pr. ct
Total,	25 pr. ct

As you see, we can sell goods at a profit of 25 per cent. and at the same time sell them for just what they would cost us if we bought in small quantities, paid local freight and bought on time. We do not try to make 25 per cent.

Our claim is corroborated by the number of prudent purchasers we send. For June the 1st to the present, we have sold $4,540.21 worth of goods, received more than $3,300.00 in cash. Our books are open for inspection of any doubters. When in need of furniture come to headquarters.

Mayor's Court Yesterday.

The police court sesison yesterday was not interesting. Rufus Light, charged with an assault and arrested by Officer J. B. Hall, was fined $5 and costs. The cases of the street car conductors, Roan and Boswell, charged with violation of the law regulating the car traffic at Front and Princess streets before the amended ordinance went into effect this week, were called up and the defendants were discharged. The cars are now being operated acording to the amended ordinance and everything appears satisfactory. Four draymen, charged with operating their vehicles without numbers, were dismissed upon payment of the tax.

Rev. Mr. McKaughan Improving.

Friends of Rev. J. A. McKaughan, pastor of Brooklyn Baptist church who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, will be glad to know that he has sufficiently recovered as to be able to be brought home yesterday However, it will be some time yet before he will be able to resume his active pastoral duties. There will be no services at Brooklyn Baptist church to-day with the exception of Sunday School at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Their Infant Dead.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Pugh, of Navassa, will sympathize with them in the death of their infant son, John Arnold, aged 15 months which occurred yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Mr. Pugh is bridge tender at Navassa and has many friends who will regret to hear of his bereavement. The remains will be brought to Wilmington on the steamer Navassa this morning and the remains will be taken to Wrightsville Sound for interment.

APRIL SHOWERS

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1906, by P. C. Eastment

There was a swift turn with scarcely any slackening of speed, the two outer wheels an inch above the ground, as they swung the corner, then the automobile settled down to a long, straight run.

"Do you think we can make it, Mr. Townsend?" the girl asked anxiously.

"Make it"—lightly—"of course we can. It isn't over ten or twelve miles, and we can go at a snail's pace and do that in thirty minutes, and those clouds yonder are not halfway up the sky yet."

The girl's face showed relief.

"I suppose it's foolish," she said, "but I do hate to get caught in a rain. And—and you know—or, rather, probably you don't know—it's a sort of life and death affair for a girl with a brand new hat and costume to get mixed up in a shower. Every true woman can sympathize with the girl who saved her hat at the expense of a month under a doctor's care."

"OH, YOU DEAR BOY!"

"We'll save yours without the expense of so much as a hatpin," he responded.

But he reckoned without thought of the month.

Ten minutes, and the clouds had not rolled up appreciably higher. Then suddenly a rain drop splashed against the girl's face, followed by a dash of water that drooped an ostrich feather toward her eyes. The girl's hands flew to her hatpins, but before they could be withdrawn the rain was coming down in torrents, and the hands fell to her side with a tragic motion of helplessness. Both shot a quick glance behind. There were no dark clouds rolling up and above them. On all sides save where the clouds were creeping up in front the sky was blue, but overhead a slight patch of mist had obscured the sky, but not so thickly as entirely to shut out the blue. The man scowled understandingly.

"It's April," he said, "and a crack opened in the sky just wide enough for a cloud to pop out. Human foresight isn't proof against that. And your dress, too. I'm sorry, Miss Ellis."

"Yes, so am I," quizzingly, her good humor quickly returning. "The costume was only sent home this morning, and I counted on it helping me out at the house party next week. What shall we do?"

"Scorch for shelter. I have already doubled speed. There," as a white spot showed under some trees in the distance, "that's a house, I think. No," as they rushed nearer, "it's a small hotel. We'll stop there."

Another two minutes and they had swung from the road and across the lawn, up to the very door, without regard to path or grass, and Mr. Townsend threw himself from the car and lifted her almost bodily to the shelter of the little piazza. Then he started back toward the car.

"I'll run up to the city and get you a change of clothing," he called hurriedly. "I can go to your home and be back in half an hour. Meanwhile go in somewhere away from the air."

But she threw up a hand protestingly.

"What nonsense!" she cried. "The shower'll be over in five minutes. See, it's already breaking away; and just as soon as the sun is out it will be warm again. I would rather go on with you." She glanced down at her wet garments ruefully. "It wouldn't be any satisfaction staying here," she added. "You may see if you can borrow me some kind of wrap, though."

He hesitated, then stepped with her into the hotel. Leaving her in the parlor, he went to the office. As he entered a young lady appeared at a side door. After a moment their eyes met, then both sprang forward.

"Edith!" he cried delightedly. "When did you arrive?"

"Last night. We didn't stop over at Washington, as planned. One of our party knew about this quiet little hotel, and we came straight here for a few days' rest. It's funny to meet you so soon, though, but it saves me sending a message into the city after you. My friend leaves tomorrow, and we're planning a little home party tonight as a sort of farewell. No, never mind your clothes," as she saw him glance down at them significantly. "We can find a change for you in the hotel. You can't leave us now we've got you. Oh, you dear boy," bending forward suddenly and kissing him, regardless of the two or three men in the room, "I am glad to see you! Now stay here just a minute while I run up and get Jennie. She wants to meet you."

"Hold on; wait a minute!" called Mr. Townsend, suddenly recollecting himself. But the young lady was gone. He returned to the parlor, the wrap forgotten. His companion was not there.

"The lady you came in with has just left," said an attendant. "She asked about a train for the city, and I told her one was at the depot just ready to start. The depot's right behind the hotel. There," as the puffing of an engine came to them, "it's going now. She left this note."

Townsend snatched the note and read:

Mr. Townsend—I was standing by the door and saw the girl kiss you. For an instant I was surprised. Then I remembered I had known you only a month. Thank you for the auto ride. Sincerely,
RUTH ELLIS.

Townsend smothered an exclamation and sprang down the steps to his automobile, not even stopping to pick up his hat. Three minutes later the young lady re-entered the office.

"Where's the gentleman I was talking with a few minutes ago?" she asked of the clerk.

"Gone off in his auto," the clerk replied politely. "Seemed in a hurry."

The young lady stared, then her eyes filled with tears, and she turned hurriedly and left the room.

Meanwhile Townsend was defying all consequences of speed in his mad rush to the city, forgetful that the train was being rapidly left behind. When he reached the residence of Miss Ellis it was stopping at a way station three miles away. He slipped into the vestibule, wet and miserable.

A half hour later her carriage drove up and stopped beside his automobile. He was at the carriage door when it opened. As she saw him Miss Ellis recoiled, her face darkening.

"You here," she began.

"It was my sister you saw," he broke in hurriedly and incoherently, "just my sister Edith; and"—

"I thought she was in Mexico," coldly.

"She was, but they got back earlier than expected. And now I suppose she is cross, too, from the way I left."

Miss Ellis waited inquiringly, but as he explained her face cleared like the sky after the shower. When he finished she was smiling.

"I think we can make it all right, Harry," she said. She never had used that name before. "You run on to your hotel and put on dry clothing, and I will go in and do the same. Be back here in half an hour or so, and we'll go out to the hotel and spend the evening. Your sister will laugh with us when she hears the explanation. Hurry!"

Harry Townsend did hurry, and now his own face was as clear as the unclouded sky.

"Blessed old April shower!" he cried as he sprang into his automobile. "It helped me on with Miss Ellis more than a year of ordinary acquaintance could have done."

The Word "Slave."

The word "slave," which is happily used seldom unless metaphorically in this country, is a word of brilliant historical antecedents. Its original, the Russian "slava," means glorious and is the title of that race which subsumes the Russian people. But when the Germans reduced hosts of the Slavs to servitude their name, from malice or accident, as Gibbon says, became synonymous with "servile." It retains no more suggestion of its racial origin now than does "ogre," which is really "Hungarian," from a confusion of the Magyars with the Huns, and of both with the terrible Tartars.

ADERTISE IN THE MORNING STAR

MYSTERY MAY YET BE SOLVED

Joshua Harrison, of Currituck, Held for Complicity in the Kidnapping of Little Kenneath Beasley.

(News and Observer.)

Elizabeth City, N. C., Sept. 6.—News was received here from Currituck Court House his morning that Joshua Harrison, one of the oldest citizens of Currituck county, was yesterday indicted by the grand jury upon the charge of being an accomplice in the causes by which Kenneth Beasley, the little son of Hon. S. M. Beasley, disappeared more than a year ago.

A capias instanter was issued for Mr. Harrison and today he was held under arrest by an officer pending the giving of bail. Joshua Harrison's name has been connected with this affair ever since the child disappeared.

Kenneth Beasley, a little boy, the son of S. M. Beasley, of Currituck county, disappeared one day in February, 1905, and no trace of him has been found from that day to this. The boy went to school in the morning. When he started home snow was falling. He never saw his home again, and whether he is living or dead is a painful mystery to his parents. Search was made for him far and wide; swamps were gone over time and again and creeks in the neighborhood were dragged with hooks in hopes of bringing the little body to the surface. Trained dogs were taken to the scene to trace the boy's footprints, from school, but they were unable to find the scent.

Mr. S. M. Beasley, father of the boy, was serving Currtituck in the Legislature at the time. A telegram apprised him of the loss of his son and he immediately came home, his seat in the Senate remaining vacant. The father spared neither effort nor expense in the hope of finding the child dead or alive.

The first theory, that the boy had wandered in the snow storm and had either been drowned in some stream or perished with cold, was abandoned after a most thorough search had convinced his parents that the body was not in the locality. It then became a settled conviction that the boy had been abducted—but, by whom and for what purpose? Thereafter the scope of search for the child was broadened, and inquiry was made in cities and towns wherever it was thought possible that little Kenneth had been carried. Supposed clues were traced with the most diligent care, but all ended alike—in disappointment. Again and again it was reported that the lost boy had been seen, but when the rumor was traced to its source it was found in every instance to be but the glimmer of a false hope.

Finally the waning hopes of the Beasley family settled into despair of ever seeing little Kenneth again.

Now comes the indictment of Joshua Harrison, followed by his arrest, on the charge of complicity in the abduction. Whether this step foreshadows the recovery of the lost child or not does not appear from the foregoing telegram; but it is hoped by friends of Mr. Beasley in Raleigh and by all people here and elsewhere, that the outcome will be the restoration of the boy safe and sound to his parents.

How He Knew.

There is a very forgetful girl in Denver, living up on Washington street. Fearing a young man who called on her last week would stay too long she set the clock in the parlor half an hour ahead. She was tired, having been out horseback riding that day, and wanted to get to bed early. The scheme worked. But then she forgot to turn the clock back and, having numerous young men friends, she also very carelessly forgot which one it was. Last night the young man called again. The clock was still fast and he noticed it.

"That clock is wrong, isn't it?" he asked.

"Yes," she replied. "I set it ahead so a fellow who called Wednesday night would go home in time to let me get some sleep."

"The clock fooled him all right," said the caller quietly.

"How do you know?" she asked.

The young man smiled a sickly smile. "I called Wednesday night."

The girl coughed.

"We're having so much trouble in getting a hired girl," she said. "Does your mother ever have difficulty securing good help?"—Denver Post.

Age of Birds.

The doctrine of vegeterianism appears to be slightly shaken by the result of an investigation that an English newspaper has made into the subject of the longevity of birds. With one notable exception the carrion, or meat feeding birds, are the longer lived. The exception is the swan. The average ages of some of the best known birds are given in the following: Blackbird lives 12 years, blackcap 15, canary 24, crane 24, crow 100, eagle 100, fowl, common, 10; goldfinch 15, goose 50, heron 59, lark 13, linnet 23, nightingale 18, parrot 60, partridge 15, peacock 24, pelican 50, pheasant 15, pigeon 20, raven 100, robin 12, skylark 30, sparrow hawk 40, swan 100, thrush 10 and wren 3 years.

WRONG VALISE CAUSED SHOCK

A Newly Married Couple Surprised on Finding Baby Outfit in Their Baggage.

Philadelphia, Sept. 6.—Two leather suitcases, alike as two peas, and their accidental exchange brought consternation to a bride and groom who arrived in the city on the Philadelphia and Reading "flyer" yesterday, and caused the father of a large and interesting family no end of anxiety.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Fielder, who were recently married at Long Branch were enroute to Atlantic City to spend their honeymoon. Seated just behind them were Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Grammes, of New Hope, Pa., The Grammes were accompanied by ther three children, the youngest being an infant of six months.

Between the two parties their baggage was placed, two suitcases exactly alike in every respect. When the train reached Philadelphia Mr. Grammes grabbed up one suitcase and followed by his wife and children, left the train.

A little more leisurely the newly married pair stood in the aisle waiting for the other passengers to get out before leaving themselves, and, laying the suitcase on the seat, opened it, and drew out an article of infant's wearing apparel.

Somewhat flushed, the recent bridegroom took out in rapid succession:

One baby's cap.
Two pair tiny socks.
One diminutive "slip."
One nursing bottle.
One baby's "hand."
One box talcum powder.

Wht he said wouldn't look weel in print, but the other passengers caught on, and an audible smile went around the car. In speaking of the incident at 2412 North Hollywood street, where Mr. and Mrs. Fielder are visiting Mr. and Mrs Fredeick Smith, Mrs. Fielder said she had "never been so shocked before."

An advertisement in a local paper straightened out the tangle, and today both families are the happy possessors of their own baggage.

Foreign Bodies In the Flesh.

It is not an uncommon thing for people to carry needles, pins, bullets and bits of steel aromnd with them for half a lifetime, but no one can be found who would be willing voluntarily to undertake such a burden. And yet there are instances where articles which might seem to be of a most dangerous character have been carried in the body for years. A man, in repairing a building, fell through a window, breaking the glass and severely cutting one of his arms. The wound was carefully and antiseptically dressed, and the man went about his business. Three years later he called upon the doctor who had attended him and complained of a boil on his wrist. The physician casually mentioned the injury which he had sustained and asked him if he suffered any inconvenience from it. He answered, "No, not much," but said that at times there was a peculiar sensation between the elbow and shoulder. Upon examination the doctor found a long splinter of glass just ready to prick through the skin at a point several inches above the place where it had originally entered. The glass was drawn out, the wound properly dressed, and the man recovered, thereafter being entirely free from the annoying sharp pains to which he had for years been subject.

Well Balanced Cats.

"Did you know that if you cut a cat's tail off she can't catch mice any more?" asked a young woman of another.

"I don't see why," replied the other, "and, further, I can't imagine what occasion you have had for cutting off cats' tails to see."

"I haven't cut off any cats' tails, but an accident deprived our cat of its caudal appendage. The feline became as helpless as a ship without a rudder. When it tried to spring upon an object it would alight far to one side. The look of pained surprise on the cat's features was pathetic. After awhile it learned to jump straight again, but it was a long and painful experience for the poor cat. The balance of power and the power to balance seem to lie in the tail of the cat."—Kansas City Times.

Why the Jew Excels.

In almost every field of human endeavor the Jew excels. There is a philosophic reason for this which has no relation to essential superiority. The Jew is thorough. He is so as a result of long necessity. The world has vainly sought to deprive him of the means of existence. He was quick to understand that with merely equal merit he could not hope for an even chance. He perceived that his only promise of survival under the handicap of race lay in superior qualifications. He applied himself. He learned to master difficulties and surmount obstacles. Discounted by prejudice, he realized that his work must carry a premium of value in order to reach parity in the open market. As the problem grew more difficult his capacities increased proportionately, for nature responds unfailingly to every demand of necessity.—Walter Hurt in Culturist.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, September 7.—The cotton market had quite a sharp break during the day's trading and closed and 17 points. Sales were estimated nd 17 points . Sales were estimated at 250.000 bales, business being a little less active than yesterday. The opening was steady at a decline of 3 and 5 points which was just about as due on cables. At first the undertone seemed to be good and there was support from the same brokers who have appeared to be bulling the market since the holidays. Weather advices were considered very favorably, however, the tropical storm failed to put in an appearance and was reported to be working nothward well out to sea; the forecasts were for good weather tomorrow; and there was more aggressive selling after the announcement from Washington that the September condition report to be issued at 1 o'clock on Monday, would carry the condition of the crop to August 25th as usual, and would not be revised to September 1, as had been rumored during the past few days. The market closed at the low point of the day, and during the afternoon there was considerable selling by recent buyers. Advices from the South as to the spot situation were somewhat conflicting. The southern market as officially reported were unchanged to 1-5c. higher.

Receipts cotton as the ports today 14,894 bales against 17.957 last week and 24,867 last year.

For the week 75,000 bales against 74,775 last week and 157.908 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 1,505 bales against 920 last year, and at Houston 8,144 bales against 9,015 last year.

Spot closed quiet 20 points lower. Middling uplands 9.80; middling gulf 10.05; sales 600 bales.

Futures closed barely steady. Opening and closing follow:

Cromwell's Burial Place.

The thirty acres of this great cemetery (Abney Park) include the site of another large old house and its grounds, Fleetwood House, once the residence of General Fleetwood and his wife, who was Bridget, the daughter of Oliver Cromwell. This sight is to the right of the avenue, and there one summer day, among older and plainer tombstones than those of the Abney, or opposite, side, I saw men mowing the long grass and presently came upon a mound inclosed with an iron rail. The mound itself was covered with ivy, but trimmed so that one could read on a red granite slab the words, "This mound was a favorite retirement of the late Isaac Watts, D. D." Tradition says he loved that mound because from it he could see the open country. It is now hemmed in by houses, but the mound is still solitary. Another tradition tells of a rumor current soon after Cromwell's death to the effect that the Protector's body was not in the coffin that was buried with regal pomp in the abbey, but had been secretly brought down to his daughter's house and laid to rest where now is the mound.—Christian World.

Changes In Pronunciation.

It requires no very profound knowledge of English literature to ascertain that the pronunciation of the language has undergone a vast change during the last three centuries. The shrewd conjecture has indeed more than once been hazarded that the works of the Elizabethan dramatist would be unintelligible to a modern audience if the native and original pronunciation were adhered to, and certain, at all events, it is that in many well known passages of Shakespeare the very rhythm of the line imperatively demands a strange and unaccustomed accentuation of certain words. With the peculiarities of a later period most people are sufficiently acquainted. That gold was geold and that china was chaney during the Augustan era is matter of common knowledge. And who can forget Pope's description of Atticus:

Dreading even fools, by flatterers besieged,
And so obleeging that he ne'er obleeged?

The last mentioned mode, as well as the two others, lingered on well into the last century and was habitual with Lord John Russell, though they are all probably by this time as rare as Rooshia for Russia and rarer than Spaw for Spa.—Chambers' Journal.

How Arnold Studied Logic.

Here is an interesting story told in the life of Archbishop Temple:

Matthew Arnold got leave, at the last moment, to take in "Logic For Responsions" instead of "Euclid," which he could never master. The day before the examination he went to Jowett, who was his tutor, and asked how he could learn the subject in time, as he was wholly ignorant of it. Jowett said his only chance was to go to Temple and see if he would try to teach him in one day. Temple consented and, starting about 9 o'clock in the morning, talked continuously, allowing two pauses of half an hour each for meals, till past 2 o'clock next morning. Arnold had been provided with paper, but took no notes. He lay back in his chair with the tips of his fingers together, saying from time to time, "What wonderful fellows they were!" Soon after 2 o'clock a. m. Temple sent Arnold away to get some sleep, after which he satisfied the examiners in logic. He answered every question.

Ruling Switzerland.

In Switzerland they have no idea that they are essentially idiots and must have great men and superior and divinely gifted intellects to rule them and tell them what to do about their affairs. They do not think much of "ruling" in Switzerland nor much of the idea of divinely gifted intellects. All are great men in Switzerland, and one is as great and as divinely gifted as another. To the Swiss mind the great men are those that do something in science or literature, like Agassiz or De Saussure; but they have no particular fancy to be "ruled" by anybody, however great. You will find many an intelligent Swiss that cannot tell you the name of the president of Switzerland. He knows the name of the president of the United States, always, but he does not know who is at the head of his own country. Not because the interest he takes in his political affairs is small, for it is very great; but because who may be president of Switzerland is not important. Whoever he is, he amounts to nothing, he effects nothing, he "rules" nothing. The only rulers of Switzerland are the Swiss people.—Everybody's Magazine.

Fears of Famous Folk.

The great Dr. Johnson, with all his philosophy, was not without a superstition. He was very careful not to enter a room with his left foot foremost. If by any chance he did so he would immediately step back and reenter with his right foot foremost. He was terribly afraid of death, too, and would not suffer it to be mentioned in his presence.

Julius Caesar, to whom the shouts of thousands of the enemy were but sweet music, was mortally afraid of the sound of thunder and always wanted to get underground to escape the dreadful noise.

Marshal Saxe, who loved to look upon the ranks of opposing armies, fled and screamed in terror at the sight of a cat.

Peter the Great could scarcely be persuaded to cross a bridge, and whenever he placed his foot on one he would cry out with fear. Like the great man that he was, he tried to overcome his weakness, but he was never able to do so. And Byron would never help any one to salt at table, nor would he be helped himself, and if any salt were spilled he would immediately get up and leave.

When Boston Was Young.

A book published in 1817 informs us that the fare by steamer from New York to New London, Conn., was $7, including board. The distance is given as 140 miles and the time twenty-one hours. The same book tells us that Boston is not yet a city, "because the people fear that the power invested in corporations would be injurious to their liberties." Further on it is stated that "this town is the headquarters of federalism in politics and Unitarianism in religion."

Mutual Slips.

Tom—What made you give me away so when I was telling that yarn at the dinner table? Dick—I didn't mean to; it was only a slip of the tongue. But that's no reason why you should have kicked me so hard! Tom—Oh, I didn't mean to—it was only a slip of the foot. —Detroit Free Press.

DON'T SPECULATE WITH UNCLE SAM'S MONEY

Government Funds Must Be Used in Locality Where Deposited—If Community Cannot Use it Send it Back to Treasury.

By Wire to the Morning Star.

Washington. September 7.—Secretary Shaw has made public a circular letter dated today, to all national bank depositories in which he says in effect that he expects public moneys in depository banks to be used in the communities where it is deposited and not loaned through brokers and other agents in New York for speculative purposes.

The letter is as follows:

"I am advised that many banks, scattered throughout the country, are loaning their surplus funds through brokers and others in New York on call at high rates of interest. Money loaned on call is well-nigh universally for speculative purposes. I recognize the right of any individual to speculate in stocks or in lands, and the legal right of any bank to loan money at appropriate rate of interest, at home or abroad, on ample security even with knowledge that it is being used for speculative purposes. I am not willing, however, that the government money shall be enticed away from the locality where it has been deposited for the purpose of being used in this way. Public deposits are made in aid of legitimate business as distinguished from speculation whatever its nature. Depository city banks are expected to loan at regular rates or not at all, and they must not be tempted to act as agents instead of correspondents for other depository banks in making call loans at high rates.

"If you have more money than your community can appropriately absorb please return it to the treasury, for it can be promptly placed where it will do much good. This does not apply to banks with large reserves regularly on deposit with city correspondents."

New York, September 7.—Secretary Shaw's letter on the use of public money for speculative purpose created a great deal of surprise in banking circles in this city where it was believed that a good deal of the money to be deposited by the government at interior points would speedily be diverted to this centre. Special interest was shown in he Secretary's order enjoining depository banks from lending government funds at high rates. It was recoginzed by New York bankers that the treasury department is in a position to maintain a close watch on the operations of the depository banks in this connection because of the report made by them five times a year to he conptroller of the currency.

BANK WRECKER TURNED OVER

Editor Keeley and Attorney Olsen Responsible for Future Safety of Prisoner.

NO DATE FIXED FOR RETURN

Keeley and Olsen Will Make Their Own Arrangements—No Action Taken to Recover the $12,000 Deposited in Tangier Bank.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, September 7.—A dispatch was received at the state department today from Mr. Gummere, American minister to Morocco, conveying the information that Paul O. Stensland, the president of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, of Chicago, was turned over today to Managing Editor Keeley, of the Chicago Tribune and the State's Attorney Olsen of Illinois, who apprehended the fugitive banker at Tangier. While the dispatch does not say so, the presumption is that Stensland will remain in confinement at the American legation at Tangier until arrangements have been perfected for his removal to the United States.

Messrs. Keeley and Olsen, however, will be held responsible henceforth for the safe-guarding of the prisoner. They will be permitted to make their own arrangements for the return of Stensland and it is said they have under consideration a merchant vessel, the name of which has not been divulged. The naval refrigerating ship Glacier, now en route home form Manila, is the only government vessel that will be available for many weeks nd she will not not reach Tangier for at least three weeks.

It was announced at the state department that no action had been taken on behalf of the receiver of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank for the recovery of the $12,000 which Stensland has on deposit in the French bank at Tangier.

SULLIVAN TAKES BRYAN TO TASK

Replies to the Attacks Made Upon Him at the Jefferson Club Banquet.

REGRETS MR. BRYAN'S RULE

He Invited a Comparison of His Democracy With Mr. Bryan's—Regrets Anything Tending Toward Discord in Party.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Sept. 7.—Roger C. Sullivan, member from Illinois of the Democratic National Committee tonight issued a lengthy statement in which he replies to the attacks made upon him by Mr. Bryan. The following is an abstract of Mr. Sullivan's remarks:

"In his Jefferson Club, banquet speech at Chicago Tuesday evening William J. Bryan again saw fit to make me the excuse for exploiting his new ambition to convert the Democratic party in the United States into an autocracy with himself on the dictator's throne. I regret that he has done so, as I would regret any incident or circumstances tending toward discord in the Democratic party.

"If portions of Mr. Bryan's speech mean anything, they mean that he would rather have his own way than have Democrats elected to Congress or any other office. He has invited all Illinois Democrats who agree with him in his opposition to me to bolt their ticket. If there are any Democrats in Illinois who are disposed to act on this typically Bryanesque advice, many of them unfortunately will be found in Congressional districts which are close, but in which, with united effort, we have a good chance to elect Democratic Congressmen. If these districts send representations to the next National House of Representatives, the nation will have Mr. Bryan to thank. As a Democrat, I regret that Mr. Bryan's rule—or ruin disposition—has led him to make such misuse of his influence.

"But in so far as Mr. Bryan's banquet speech applies to me personally, to my character, to my business, to my associates, to my Democracy and to my political acts, I welcome the issue, and on that issue I challenge Mr. Bryan to the proof of his truthfulness, his honesty and his sincerity—that sincerity which, he boasts, is his political asset. I yield to no man in my adherence to Democratic principles as laid down by the great founder, Thomas Jefferson. Judged by that standard, I invite comparison of my Democracy with Mr. Bryan's."

Continuing Mr. Sullivan scores Mr. Bryan for the "company he keeps," and attacks particularly the character of Theodore Nelson, Judge Owen P. Thompson, Millard Fillmore Dunlap and Henry T. Rainey. These are the men endorsed by Mr. Bryan in his Paris interview. Mr. Sullivan describes them as Mr. Bryan's confidential agents in the purification of Illinois politics, and adds:

"Is Mr. Bryan an exception to the rule that a man is known by the company he keeps?"

COTTON MEN FIX MINIMUM PRICE

Association Establish Ten Cents as the Lowest Rate for Cotton This Season.

CROP IS IN BAD CONDITION

Charges Against Cheatham for Dealing in Futures Taken Up—Brown, of North Carolina, Dissatisfied With Action Taken.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 7.—The executive committee of the Southern Cotton Association in session here today fixed ten cents as the minimum price for which cotton should be sold this season.

In a resolution adopted by the committee it is stated that the crop is in a state of deterioration, and for that reason no estimate of the crop was made. The resoluion states, however, that the committee is satisfied that the crop will not be as large as the current estimates. The placing of the minimum price at ten cents was in the nature of a victory for the conservative element of the association. The resolution adopted by the committee which is in the shape of an address to the public follows:

"Inasmuch as we, the cotton growers of the South, know that there has been great deterioration in the cotton crop since August 15, and,

"Whereas the concensus of opinion of the members of this committee is that the deterioration is still going on we deem it unwise to make an estimate of the crop at this time. We are satisfied the crop will not be as large as the current estimate.

"We, therefore, suggest and urge upon all our members and producers throughout the South not to sell their cotton at a figure less than the cost of production.

"We call upon all Southern interests to aid in maintainng for all time this price as a minimum. We urge the necessity of marketing the crop slowly and only on an advancing market, and withdraw all cotton from the market at every decline."

The committee took up the charges against Secretary Richard Cheatham of dealing in futures while an officer of the association. After a spirited debate in which J. A. Brown, of North Carolina, led the opposition, the committee decided to go into executive sesion to consider the changes. Mr. Brown then left the room in which the committee was meeting and announced that he had refused to sit in executive session on the matter.

Mr. Brown has maintained throughout the sessions that they should be open and not executive.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Wilmington Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick idneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Wilmington proof:

R. A. Biddle, clerk at 19 Market street, residing at 606 Castle st., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills myself for kidney trouble and my wife who also suffered from backache also used them. I never knew anything to act so quickly. I have suffered quite a long time with my back and kidneys. The kidney secretions were very dark and full of sediment. My wife also complained of her back, and when we read of Doan's Kidney Pills in our newspapers I went to R. R. Bellamy's drug store and got a box. We used them with the best of results. In my case the kidney secretions cleared up and the pains left my back. We have neither of us complained since taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and it is with pleasure that I recommend them at every opportunity."

For a New Testimonial as to the Wonderful Cures effected by

The Mecklenburg Mineral Waters,

Chase City, Virginia.

Others tell what their waters ARE; we show what ours DO.

These are no FANCIES. These are FACTS. Let those who were cured speak for themselves.

LISTEN:

CURES CHRONIC ECZEMA.

Dr. H. H. Levy, 500 East Grace street, Richmond, Va., Professor of Practice of Medicine, Medical College of Virginia, on January 22, 903 writes:

I have found the Mecklenburg Chloride of Calcium Water an excellent alterative, and combined with the Mecklenburg Lithia Water, especially effective in the cure of Chronic Eczema.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is donig wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
